

Exploring Medical Students' Perspectives on Podcasts as a Study Tool for Core Clerkships during April - June 2023

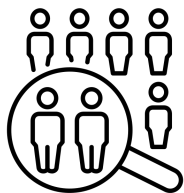

JiCi Wang, BA & Maya Hammoud, MD, MBA

Podcasts have been rising in popularity amongst learners in the healthcare field

The question of how learners utilize podcasts during core clerkships remain unanswered

We sampled 83 out of 174 students on core clerkships at U of M Medical School (48% response rate)

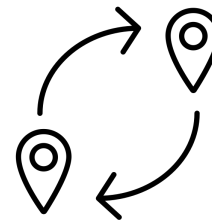

43 participants did not utilize podcasts during April - June 2023

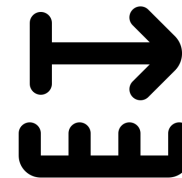

Student who did listen to podcasts mainly utilized them for shelf studying

Clinical relevance was the top feature that drew students' initial attention and made them continue listening to podcasts

Most students found time to utilize podcasts during commute

Length of episodes was the top reason that made students stop listening to podcasts